EAGER TO ACT IN CUBA'S FAVOR.

A Single Objection Prevents Action by the House.

VEST'S HARD HITS AT SPAIN.

A Growing Sentiment in Favor of Cuban Independence—The Passage of the Resolutions May Involve a War with Spain.

Washington, Feb. 27.—The cause of Cuban independence had strong advocacy and support in the Senate to-day, in a speech of fervid and impassioned eloquence, delivered by Senator Vest of Missouri. He spoke of Spain as a toothless old wolf, sitting at the door of the cave of despotism and grinning at the procession of free republics; denounced the declaration of Capt.-Gen. Weyler, and asked whether the Senate should sit silent and dumb while the Cubans were hutchered into subjection to the Spanish Queen.

"If we do," he exclaimed, "God will curse us. The time will come when there will be a retribution upon us as a people, because we have not cherished the legacy of self-government bequeathed to us by our fathers."

The Cuban debate is to be continued to-morrow, Senator Sherman of Ohio being one of those to take part in it. The voting on the resolutions and amendments is to begin at 4 p. m.

The subject of the sea coast defenses of the country was elaborately treated in a speech by Senator Proctor of Vermont, in which he advocated land fortifications in preference to the creation of a powerful navy, and it was announced immediately that the Committee on Fortifications contemplated a trip to New York to examine the defences of that harbor.

Bills appropriating $500,000 for two first-class revenue steamers for the Pacific coast, and $100,000 for a public building at Newport News, Va., were passed. Also the army appropriation bill, with no greater delay than caused by its being read in full, also passed. It appropriates over $23,000,000 and is the fifth of the annual appropriation bills that has passed the Senate. At 5 o'clock the Senate adjourned until to-morrow.

HOUSE.

Washington, Feb. 27.—The House of Representatives to-day were on the verge of declaring it to be the sense of Congress that the government of the United States should recognize the belligerency of the revolutionists in Cuba and such an attitude of neutrality between them and the Spanish government; tender its good offices to secure Cuban independence and to intervene in the conflict progressing on that island, if necessary, to protect legitimate American interests there.

But the objection by Boutelle (Rep.) of Maine prevented the great majority of the House from carrying out its desire, and the matter has gone over until later. The incident was the climax of the proceedings of an important and interesting session.

At once, after the reading of the journal, the House proceeded to further discuss the contested election case of Van Horn vs. Tarsney from the Fifth Missouri district and the debate was continued until 4:30 o'clock, at which hour by previous agreement, the vote was taken.

Messrs. Prince, Illinois; Long, Kansas, and Johnson, Indiana, all Republicans, and members of the committee, advocated the adoption of the majority report, and Maguire, California, spoke for the minority. The vote on the question of the minority that the contest be reopened and the Elections Committee instructed to recount the ballots in certain precincts of Kansas City, resulted—yeas, 102; nays, 161.

The Democrats and Populists unitedly supported the minority and were joined by the following Republicans: Arnold (Pa.), Brown, Burton (O.), Codding, Downer, Fenton, Huling, Hyde, Kulp, Leighty, Parker, Pitney, Powers, Southwick, Taylor (a member of the committee), Wellington and Wright.

The resolution of the majority declaring Van Horn entitled to the seat and that Tarsney was not elected, was agreed to and the contestant sworn in.

Early in the day there had been an interruption of the debate, to permit Hitt, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, to report the Cuban resolutions and at that time Meredith (Dem.) of Virginia asked unanimous consent for their immediate consideration, declaring they could be passed in two minutes. McCall (Rep.) of Massachusetts objected then, and the subject was dropped.

In the course of the afternoon, however, many members asked Hitt to call them up at the close of the election case, he being informed that every Republican on the floor desired to vote upon them at once. So, as Van Horn and his sponsor, Judge Burton, were going up the aisle from in front of the Speaker's desk, Hitt called attention to the fact that the resolutions had been reported, and asked that they be then considered.

To this Boutelle, who had protested against the haste with which the House passed the bill authorizing the appointment of the Venezuelan boundary commission, interposed an objection. He demanded, over audible and visible signs of discontent, that the House should give to a subject of such vast importance, involving as it did, possible war with Spain, at least decent deliberation. There was nothing in the face of his objection to do but withdraw the report, and that Hitt did, the great body of Republicans leaving the hall with a sense of disappointment at the failure to pass the resolutions.

Fitzsimmons in New York.

New York, Feb. 27. Robert J. Fitzsimmons, the champion heavyweight pugilist of America, arrived in this city this evening. He was accompanied by his wife and young son, Martin Julian, his manager, and trainer Jack Everhardt. The party reached the Pennsylvania railroad station, Jersey City, at 1 o'clock and came to this city.

The champion looks well, and has not a mark on his face to show that he had recently battled with Maher.

In regards to Corbett, he said: "I will not pay any attention until he whips some good men I have met. Mr. Corbett kept me dancing for a couple of years, when I wanted to get on a match with him, and I will now give him a dose of his own medicine."

Fitzsimmons will appear at Madison Square Garden Saturday night, but he was unable to tell what would be his plans after that. He stated that Maher's eyes were all right and that Maher repeatedly fouled him and that he was easier for him than he was in the first fight.

A. O. U. W. Day.

Leadville, Colo., Feb. 27.—The Ancient Order of United Workmen will have their day at the Ice Palace Saturday. The order in this city is very strong, and the local lodges have arranged for an elaborate entertainment for the visitors. They have offered the largest number of prizes given by any society that has yet visited the palace. There will be skating races, and sports of all kinds, for which prizes will be awarded. The day's entertainment will wind up with a grand parade and pyrotechnic display and a leap year ball in the ball room of the Ice Palace. They expect to give a prize of $75 to any lodge sending the largest turnout, and $25 for the second largest.

ON THE RETIRED LIST.

Rear Admiral Carpenter and ex-Surgeon General Wales.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Rear Admiral Charles C. Carpenter and Medical Director Philip S. Wales, ex-surgeon general of the navy, each celebrated their age birthday to-day by retiring from active service on account of age. Commander Thomas O. Selfridge, Jr., commanding the European naval station, is promoted to rear admiral through Admiral Carpenter's retirement, and Medical Inspector Thos. N. Penrose becomes a medical director through the retirement of Mr. Wales.

Admiral Carpenter was born in Massachusetts and was appointed a midshipman in 1850. His latest duty was commander-in-chief of the Asiatic naval station, from which he has just returned.

Medical Director Wales was born in Maryland, and became an assistant surgeon in the navy in 1858. He was one of the first surgeons who reached President Garfield when he was shot by Guiteau.

MANY WANTED LAND.

Familiar Scenes Repeated at the Des Moines Land Office.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 27. Over 1,100 men and women were in the line when the Federal land office opened this morning waiting to file papers against lands in the 22,000 acre tract opened for settlement in northwest Iowa to-day. Hundreds of them camped in the alleys and streets around the building the night before and they formed a line at daybreak.

This line the officers broke up before opening the office, and it had to be formed again; the advantages gained by the long waits were not recognized. The lines extended from the office on the second floor through the building and a block away on the street. It was orderly and there was little trouble. Nine women made filings. The first filing was by Samuel Dempsey, on a quarter section. Nine hundred and fourteen claims were filed, nearly all getting their turns before the office closed. The hearing of contest cases will begin to-morrow. There is an average of nine filings on a tract.

AGAINST AN AMENDMENT.

Iowa Will Not Put Prohibition in Its State Constitution.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 27.—In the House of Representatives to-day the resolution to resubmit to the people of the State the question of making prohibition a part of the constitution was defeated. It is probably the death blow at constitutional prohibition in this State, which for ten years has had no politics except the contests for and against prohibition.

The matter came up to-day on a report of the committee on constitutional amendments, recommending that the resolution pass and naming June 3 as the date for the special election. It was unexpected by the Prohibitionists, who had thought arrangements had been made to let the matter go over another day. The Democrats all voted against the resubmission. The result was: For resubmission, 52; against, 41; absent or not voting, 6.

The same resolution has been favorably reported in the Senate, but will be killed without a fight.

In the House there was no debate; it had been understood that when it came up it should go directly to a vote, and there was no scene of any kind. The Prohibitionists declare their leaders are responsible for defeat, by reason of allowing the matter to come up at this time. They say they will certainly defeat a proposition to legalize manufacture of liquors, which is being pushed, and claim they can certainly do it.

Caused by a Bank Failure.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—The failure of the Kopperl banks has probably caused the suicide of a depositor besides the supposed self-destruction of Alexander Kopperl, the father, who has not been heard from since his bank went to the wall, so his relatives claim. Isaac Beaman lost all his savings, $276, in the Canal street bank after losing $500 in a bank failure at Fargo, N. D., and was almost crazed with grief. Last Saturday he went to Joliet to visit a friend and Tuesday night disappeared. His host believes he took a dose of poison before leaving his house.

Indictments Dismissed.

Washington, Feb. 27.—District Attorney Bierney, acting under instructions from Attorney General Harmon, will dismiss the indictments against Col. J. O. P. Burnside, formerly disbursing officer of the Post Office Department, and who has been confined in the government insane asylum for 12 years. Col. Burnside was charged with misappropriating government funds in his custody, and was sent to the asylum as being irresponsible for his actions in regard to the defalcation. This action will clear the way for his discharge from confinement, if his mental condition permits.

Railway Quarrel Ended.

New York, Feb. 27.—President Simmons of the Pan American railroad, and C. P. Huntington, president of the Pacific Coast Mail Steamship company, had a conference after Mr. Huntington's return from Washington with regard to the recent friction between the two companies. As a result of it, all differences were adjusted and harmonious relations restored.

Burned by Gasoline.

Eureka, S. D., Feb. 27. A mother and two of her children were burned to death to-day by a gasoline explosion in the stove at Frank B. Puckett's house, which was destroyed by the flames. The baby was saved by the servant girl. Mr. Puckett was absent from home. The victims are: Mrs. Frank B. Puckett; Hattie, aged 7 years, and Clarence, aged 4 years.

Shot by a Lunatic.

Santa Barbara, Cal., Feb. 27.—Rev. Ferdinand Reegmeyer, the aged father superior of the Franciscan mission, was shot four times to-day by Bernard Krussmeyer, an employe at the mission, and will probably die. Krussmeyer, who was arrested gives no cause for his act. He is supposed to be mentally deranged.

Libel Suit Dismissed.

New York, Feb. 27.—The attempt that was made by Ernest F. Birmingham of the Fourth Estate to have W. M. LaFan, publisher of The Sun, indicted for criminal libel came to a farcical ending in the Tombs police court to-day. The presiding judge dismissed the complaint with the utmost contempt.

A Diplomatic Conference.

London, Feb. 27.—United States Ambassador Bayard visited the foreign office this afternoon and held a long conference with Lord Salisbury. It is stated at the United States embassy that Ambassador Bayard has not yet received a copy of the British-Venezuelan report, prepared by Sir Frederick Pollock.

A Liberal Elected.

London, Feb. 27.—An election took place yesterday in the Litchfield division of Staffordshire for a member of Parliament. The result of the voting was as follows: Mr. Warner, Liberal, 4,483; Major L. Darwin, Liberal-Unionist, 3,956; Liberal majority, 527.

LORD DUNRAVEN WAS EXPELLED.

Summary Action Taken by the New York Yacht Club.

HIS RESIGNATION WAS IGNORED.

His Neglect to Apologize for Unwarranted and Unproved Charges Was Conduct Unbecoming a Gentleman—A Vote of 39 to 1.

New York, Feb. 27.—Mr. Windham Thomas Windham-Quin, fourth Earl of Dunraven and Mount Earl, better known as the Earl of Dunraven, to-night suffered the disgrace of being expelled from honorary membership in the New York Yacht Club, the oldest organization of its kind in America.

The action had been contemplated by the club for some time past, but it was only the exertion of the strongest influence by certain members that saved his Lordship from being summarily expelled months ago. The action of the Yacht club to-night was taken because Lord Dunraven, they believed, had had sufficient time to either apologize or resign. Consequently upon motion of Capt. Cass Ledyard, Lord Dunraven was expelled from honorary membership in the club by a vote of 39 to 1.

An Adjourned Meeting.

To-night's meeting had been adjourned from two weeks ago when the question of Lord Dunraven's expulsion was brought up in the form of a resolution introduced by Capt. Ledyard, calling upon Lord Dunraven to tender his resignation. The meeting this evening was called to order at 9 p. m. Some forty yacht owners or voting members were present in addition to about 300 regular members.

Commodore E. M. Brown presided. The meeting being a special one, only business pertaining to the Dunraven question was discussed and Secretary Oddie immediately proceeded to read the different letters which had passed between Lord Dunraven and members of the club. First he read Dunraven's letter to Mr. E. J. Phelps and one to George L. Rives, which were published this afternoon. Next was read the following communication in reply to Dunraven's letter to Mr. Phelps:

A Reply to Dunraven.

"New York, Feb. 26, 1896.—To the Commodore of the New York Yacht club, Sir: Enclosed herewith will be found a communication from Lord Dunraven. As the committee at its request was discharged at the last meeting of the yacht club from further consideration of this matter, this communication is transmitted to the club for such action as it thinks proper. The committee has acknowledged the receipt of the letter and has notified Lord Dunraven of its transmission to the yacht club.

"They cannot submit this letter without observing that Lord Dunraven misstates their report in an important particular. He says that a diagram was accepted by the committee as mathematically proving that we did not see the actual objects which we did see. Nothing in the report justifies this statement. It was not denied or doubted that we saw the discharge hole of the bilge pump above the surface of the water on the day before the race and that it was below the surface on the day following. The fact demonstrated by the evidence and found in the report is that the hole could not be visible above the water when the vessel was on an even keel and consequently that it was made visible on the first day by the vessel having a slight list to starboard, the probable cause of which the evidence pointed out. The apparent change in the relative position of the vessel had been increased in the meantime. Very respectfully yours,

EDWARD J. PHELPS.
J. PIERPONT MORGAN,
WM. C. WHITNEY,
A. T. MAHAN,
G. L. RIVES."

Notes from Dunraven.

Then followed the reading of the following communication:

"2 Norfolk Street, Park Lane, W., Feb. 12, 1896.—Dear Sir:—Seeing that the New York Yacht club was to meet on the 13th to consider the report of the committee of inquiry appointed on the 18th of Nov. last, I thought it right to inform you by cable that I had written to Mr. Rives on the 5th inst. and to Mr. Phelps on the 12th inst.

I remain, yours faithfully,
DUNRAVEN."

"J. Oddie, Esq., Secretary New York Yacht Club, New York.—According to papers here Ledyard's motion postponed pending arrival letters. These in my judgment do not effect terms of motion request leave Rives Phelps publish them here. DUNRAVEN."

A Resolution Withdrawn.

After the reading of these communications, Capt. Ledyard jumped to his feet and asked the unanimous consent of the meeting to the withdrawal of his resolution of Feb. 12, demanding Lord Dunraven's resignation. This was willingly granted. Then Capt. Ledyard proceeded to read the following resolution, preceding it with the following remarks:

"At the last meeting of this club I introduced a resolution which called upon Lord Dunraven to resign his honorary membership of the club. I thought at that time and I believe a great many members of the club thought that that method of dealing with the situation, asking him to resign instead of taking more summary action against him, was more in accordance with the way in which we had been dealing with the matter up to that time.

"I do not think there has ever been in the mind of any member of the club, sir, an idea that we should accept any resignation by Lord Dunraven, unless it was accompanied by a full, complete and ample apology, and at the same time a retraction of his charges.

"I think, Sir, that the communications which we have received since the last meeting have put a different aspect on the matter. Lord Dunraven by these several communications has shown that he has not accepted the result of this inquiry. He is still carping, still hedging, still evading and still insisting that he saw with his eyes what we all know he did never see and what has been conclusively proven to have been impossible.

"I think his course has been such that it is now due to the dignity and self-respect of this club that action should be taken which will leave no room for doubt as to the attitude of the club. And with that view I shall ask the unanimous consent of the members of the club to withdraw the resolution which I offered at the last meeting for the purpose of submitting in its place another and different one, as follows:

Resolutions of Censure.

"The Earl of Dunraven, an honorary member of this club, has publicly charged foul play on the part of the Defender in the recent races for the America's cup or such a nature as necessarily implicate the managing owners of the vessel.

"The charges have been investigated by a committee of the highest character which proceeded judiciously and before which Lord Dunraven has appeared and given his own and other testimony and has been heard in person and by counsel. The committee has unanimously decided that the charge was false, that it was not merely unproved, but was affirmatively disproved by competent and uncontradicted evidence, leaving no possibility of doubt.

"'We deem it to be among the unquestioned rules which regulate the intercourse of gentlemen that when one finds that he has been led by mistake to cast unjust imputations upon the character of another, he should promptly make such reparation as remains in his power by acknowledging his error, withdrawing the imputations and explaining his regret. Such reparation to Mr. Iselin and his associates, the Earl of Dunraven, after full opportunity, has failed to make.

"'It further appears from the evidence including Lord Dunraven's own admissions, that at the time of the cup races he intentionally refrained from making the charge formally or making any protest as required by the rules, because it was impossible for him to verify the charges, and he was unwilling to take the responsibility of maintaining it.

"'It further appears that in print and in public speech Lord Dunraven has sought to justify the making of the charge by numerous misrepresentations of fact. He has been forced himself to admit the untruth of most of these, yet he stubbornly refuses to retract the injurious inferences drawn from them.

"'The representatives of this club engaged in the international yacht races with Lord Dunraven as the representative of English yachtsmen upon the footing of mutual confidence and honor. He has requitted their courtesy and confidence by distrust and suspicion, unfounded imputations of fraud and a refusal of reparation.

"'Lord Dunraven by his course has forfeited the high esteem which led to his election as an honorary member of this club, therefore,

"'Resolved, That the privileges of honorary membership heretofore extended to the Earl of Dunraven are hereby withdrawn and that his name be removed from the list of honorary members of the club.'"

When Captain Ledyard concluded there was a great outburst of applause. Someone called for the ayes and nays, and they were so ordered. Great surprise was expressed when the name of Chester C. Monroe, owner of the Oryia, was called and he said: "no." Mr. Monroe's course was heartily condemned by the members, who generally referred to him in uncomplimentary terms.

Thus ended so far as the New York Yacht Club is concerned, this international unpleasantness which has aroused so much bad feeling, on both sides and excited the yachting public of two continents for six months past.

English Press Comments.

London, Feb. 27.—The Standard will to-morrow say: "It cannot be said that Lord Dunraven's letters mark a satisfactory termination of a painful understanding. His position is logically strong; nor could he be blamed if he positively refused to adopt the report of the committee. Unfortunately he has expressed himself in a manner that leaves his attitude open to misconstruction. He neither absolutely re-asserts nor unreservedly withdraws his charges. It would have been wiser if he had taken pains to define his present views."

The Graphic will say: "Lord Dunraven's resignation is not a satisfactory end of the dispute, but it is hard to imagine a satisfactory one. At all events, the course he has taken is the only one he could have taken with dignity."

The Chronicle will say: "We are sorry that Lord Dunraven did not adopt the only proper course. His whole case utterly broke down, yet he now calmly goes over the ground again. We are astonished and grieved that he has not taken the course that most gentlemen would."

THE HORSA TRIAL.

Cuban Filibusterers in the U. S. Court at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Feb. 27.—When the trial of J. H. Wiberg, Jans B. Peterson and H. Johansenm, the late captain, first mate and second mate, respectively, of the steamer Horsa, who are charged with engaging in a Cuban filibustering expedition, was resumed in the United States District Court to-day, Assistant District Attorney Ralston continuing his address to the jury. He spoke briefly, and closed with a claim that the defendants were guilty of having violated the statute.

Capt. Keer, the senior counsel for the defendants, then began argument before the court on 13 points presented by him and upon which he asked the judge to pass in charging the jury. Capt. Keer based his argument mainly upon the construction of the statute as regards a "military expedition." He declared that to constitute a military expedition, there must be an organization—infantry, cavalry or artillery and that any other combination does not form such an expedition.

When Capt. Keer had concluded Judge Butler announced that his (the judge's) interpretation of the statute, which he expressed yesterday, had not undergone a change. The judge's interpretation of a "military expedition" is in conflict with the views of Capt. Keer, and his honor amplified his remarks of yesterday by stating that he was convinced that by the terms of the statute, Congress meant to prohibit the fitting out of any such expedition. The judge further said that he would undertake in his charge, to define the terms of the act of Congress in question, and that he would expect the jury to accept the court's interpretation.

A brief argument followed between the respective counsel and the court over the jurisdiction of the United States in this case, it having been proved that the men and arms were taken aboard the Horsa at sea, and possibly beyond the ten-mile limit. This question was not decided.

Mr. Keer then began his address to the jury on behalf of the defendants. In conclusion the speaker made the declaration that Cuba would be free on July 4 next, and he appealed to the jurors not to make martyrs of the accused.

District Attorney Ingham made the closing address to the jury. He reviewed the case at length and asked for the conviction of the defendants, certainly for the conviction of Capt. Wiberg.

At 12:20 o'clock the court took a recess until 2 p. m., when Judge Butler delivered his charge to the jury. The jury retired at 2:35 p. m. The jury had not reached a verdict at 4 o'clock, when the court adjourned until to-morrow.

Prior to adjournment the jury came in and asked the court whether all three of the accused could be considered as officers of the Horsa. The judge answered in the affirmative.

Cuban War Notes.

(From a Staff Correspondent of the United Press.)

Havana, Feb. 27.—The steamer Monteverde arrived to-day from Spain, bringing 2,115 troops to reinforce the army here.

An engagement has occurred near La Union, province of Matanzas, between a government column and the forces under Maceo and Rabi. The rebels lost four killed and forty wounded. The troops sustained no loss.

The rebel leader Vega Varela has been made a prisoner at Manzanillo.

Street Fight in Georgia.

Rome, Ga., Feb. 27.—At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon a desperate street fight occurred here between V. T. Sanford and Policeman Mulkey. Mulkey is dead, ex-Sheriff Matthews critically and perhaps fatally wounded. Several other spectators were hit by stray bullets. One struck a young lady. Policeman Mulkey clubbed a friend of Sanford's, and this caused the fight.

THE PACIFIC RAILROADS.

The Public Quite Mistaken About Them, Says Mr. Stubbs.

RATES NOT AT ALL EXCESSIVE.

Is Quite at Loss to Account for Public Prejudice Against Them. The Great Monopoly of Great Benefit to the Public.

Washington, Feb. 27.—J. C. Stubbs, third vice president of the Southern Pacific Railroad company, to-day appeared before the House Committee on Pacific Railroads. He had charge of the traffic of the Southern and Central Pacific roads for 25 years. It had not been the intention of his people to introduce testimony before the committee, and he did not come to Washington for that purpose. But, being here, if was thought advisable, in view of some of the statements and charges made, to say something regarding them. He referred particularly to the statements which characterized the Southern and Central Pacific roads as "oppressive," and that they discriminated against the Union Pacific and diverted traffic from the Central Pacific. It seemed to be the impression in some quarters that these companies held in their power all the traffic in California.

Water Competition.

Referring to the competition of a water transportation in California, he said the water ways there were open all the year round and formed a competition not to be found elsewhere in the country. In this connection he compared the northern and southern sections of the State, by counties, showing what they produced, the value of real estate and the cost of transporting grain, the principal product of the State, to export points. The products of the vine and orchard, he said, were all marketed east of the Rocky mountains, and local rates had little or no effect upon them.

Referring to legislation affecting railroads, he read from the constitution of California, the paragraph defining the powers and duties of the board of railroad commissioners. The powers granted this commission was unique. It was made its duty to establish rates and prohibit discrimination and have complete control of the rates of roads. The companies obeyed the dictates of these commissioners.

Mistakes of Ignorance.

Mr. Stubbs was asked how was it nearly every member of Congress claimed that these roads are extortionate, etc. Mr. Stubbs said that he thought that it was due to ignorance. Thirty-four per cent. of the railroad mileage in California, he said, was entirely independent and in no way under the control of the Union or Central Pacific systems. The rates, however, on the 66 per cent. under the Central and Southern Pacific was lower than the 34 per cent. not under the contract.

The Central and Southern Pacific systems included some 37 roads. If the roads were separate the rates would necessarily be higher.

Replying to a question by Mr. Sulzer of New York, he denied flatly and emphatically the statements that freight was being diverted by the Southern Pacific from the Central Pacific and being carried to New York and points east cheaper by the Southern Pacific. Traffic was not diverted as charged, and rates could not be fixed without the consent of competing and connecting lines. There are nine great through lines competing for transportational traffic. To these must be added sailing vessels a great element in competition.

A Ridiculous Statement.

It had been said that Mr. C. P. Huntington could make through rates. This statement was ridiculous. The rates were established by the various roads and it was impossible for any one road to establish rates. The conditions were such that rates must be made by concert.

It had been said that the shippers of California were not allowed to select the route by which they preferred to send their goods. This, he said, was wholly without foundation. The fact was just the opposite. It was not the railroads that cracked the whip over the shippers; but it was the shipper who cracked the whip over the railroad. The roads had to use their persuasive powers with the shippers to get their trade.

Mr. Boatner of Alabama asked how he accounted for the vehement opposition in California and in Congress by members from that State, to any solution of this matter except by foreclosure.

The Dominion of the Press.

Mr. Stubbs replied that it was simply the domination of the press, and in this connection referred to many stories published in the San Francisco papers, making charges against the roads, which he characterized as being without foundation whatever.

So far as passenger rates were concerned, these rates in the State of California were the same as in any State in the United States, except perhaps New York and Pennsylvania. The through rates from California to the East and from the East to California were the cheapest rates in the world. He did not wish to be understood as stating that the press of California was united against the roads. He did not care to state why these papers were against the roads.

The committee adjourned until Monday, when W. S. Pierce of the Union Pacific reorganization company will be heard.

Walls Blown Down.

Greeley, Colo., Feb. 27.—During the high wind which prevailed last night the walls of the three-story building which was burned a few days ago were demolished.

About 2 o'clock the wind attained great velocity and the east walls of the building were blown over upon the two-story brick building occupied by Ruble Bros. & Co.'s hardware store.

Crashing through the roof, the mass carried everything before it, not stopping until the main floor had been crushed into fragments.

The bulk of the hardware stock was buried under the mass of timbers, brick and mortar, and the loss will reach thousands of dollars, although no definite estimate can be made at present. The smaller building is now almost a complete wreck.

A Conflict of Authority.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—A conflict has arisen between the Criminal Court and the Mayor of Chicago over a colored man, William Jones, who is imprisoned in the Bridewell, in default of a fine of $5 for insulting a policeman. An order issued by Judges Goggin for his release not having been honored, the court to-day had up several officials connected with the mayor's office, and their answers not being satisfactory, the court entered a rule this afternoon on Mayor Swift and Superintendent Crawford of the Bridewell, to appear in court Saturday at 1 o'clock to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of court.

The Baltimore Strike.

Baltimore, Feb. 27.—The clothing manufacturers claim to be but little affected by the strike. They say the work for the spring trade is all done, and that a month's rest of the present workers would not materially injure business.

The strikers spent the larger part of the day in organizing. They appointed a "settling" committee, consisting of ten members, one from each union, and will remain ready to receive overtures from the manufacturers. It is claimed by the strikers that overtures have already been received from four firms. Both sides are firm and claim to be confident of success. Directly and indirectly 20,000 persons are affected by the strike.

NEBRASKA LAND SUITS.

Property Valued at One Million Dollars Involved.

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 27.—Suit has been begun at North Platte, in Lincoln county, to declare forfeited to the State twenty thousand acres of farming land in that county now held by aliens. The tract is controlled by what is known as the North Platte Land and Water company and the original owner was Lord Oglesby, of London, Eng., who in time disposed of it to Englishmen whose names are not known, but who reside mainly in Kansas City. Suit is brought under a law passed by the legislature of 1891, which declares forfeited property held by a corporation not incorporated under State laws. Inquiry of the capital to-day shows that the company has never been incorporated. This is the first suit begun under the law and much interest attaches to it. The property is valued at a million dollars.

BOXING IN NEW YORK.

A Seven Round Knock-out that Was Not on Mexican Soil.

New York, Feb. 27.—The boxing bouts at the new Manhattan Athletic club attracted a good sized crowd to the gymnasium of the club to-night. The principal attraction was the ten-round go between Steve O'Donnell and Jim Dwyer of Elizabeth, N. J.

Tommy White of Chicago and Marty McCue of this city furnished the opening bout of six rounds at 125 pounds. McCue was clearly outclassed and the judges agreed on White as the winner.

The next bout for six rounds was between Paddy Purtell of Kansas City and Joe Harmon of New York. Considerable excitement was done by both men and as the judges disagreed, the referee declared the bout a draw.

The event of the night came on at 9:45. Dwyer was knocked out by a blow across the jaw in the seventh round.

BALTIMORE AND OHIO.

A Receiver May Be Appointed for a Well Known Road.

MUCH RICHER ORE AND MORE OF IT

Being Shipped from Gold Hill's Prominent Mines.

ANACONDA AND ANCHORIA

Companies Both Make a Fine Showing—A New Vein in the Big Tunnel—Matos Companies Better Than Ever Before.

Special to The Gazette:

Cripple Creek, Feb. 27.—In no part of the camp is there more work going on or with such good results as upon Gold hill, where the mines overlook the town. All the prominent mines are shipping ore at a rate never before equalled, and the grade also shows improvement. There are also many new mines being opened up.

The Anchoria-Leland company is employing more men than ever before in its history, and yet it may fairly be stated that they have practically only just begun to feel their way in this direction. During February the company has shipped more ore than ever before and the quality shows improvement.

From the Chance six cars of ore have been sent out this week that will run better than $30 per ton. Previous to this class of ore sorted down to $50 per ton. A proportionate increase in value is noted from the shipments of the Hight and Snape lease.

Anaconda Shipments.

The Anaconda company has shipped more ore in the past three weeks than has ever been the case before. The big bore is now in 2700 feet, and at the breast of the tunnel a cross lead has been encountered a part of which carries 13 ounces of gold to the ton. A car of high-grade ore is ready to send out from here, but none of it comes from the new vein which has not yet been called upon for shipments.

Work was begun to-day on the Phoenix and Ellen McGregor lodes, recently purchased by A. L. Toombly and T. F. Grayson. A large shaft will be sunk on the properties and a good depth will be gained before cross-cutting is started. Mr. Ike May, formerly manager of the Amethyst mine at Cripple, has been engaged to take charge of the claims which are to be thoroughly developed.

Matos Properties.

The properties of the Matos company were never looking better than they are to-day. Three sets of miners are at work on the Half Moon and all of them are shipping ore. The Swift and Allen lease was recently purchased by the Michigan Mining and Leasing company. There are two veins running through the property and one of them is 16 inches wide and carries from 4 to 6 ounces of gold in every ton. The other vein is the Geneva and consists of a big body of low-grade ore that runs $28 to the ton.

The Head and Anderson lease on these claims has a four-foot vein of ore that will run $40 to the ton. The Cash apolitan leave is shipping some ore. Another good lease is the King, upon which three shifts of men are employed and where the showing is very good.

The Mattie L. is in very good ore, some more contracts have been let for future work.

The Grace Greenwood has two shipping leases and the showing in both is very good.

The Colby lease on the Dante is showing 15 inches of sylvanite ore that runs about 6 ounces to the ton.

The theft of The Sun's exclusive advance report of the Queen's speech was chosen as an example, and Mr. Hearst of The Journal, having informed The Sun that its appearance in his paper, the San Francisco Examiner, was due to its having been furnished to that paper by the Associated Press, suit was promptly instituted and the paper filed an action to recover $100,000 damages, and have just been served by the United States marshal on Mr. C. W. Knapp of the executive committee of the Associated Press, Mr. White, the president, and Mr. C. G. Dible, the assistant general manager.

THE FAKIES' INVASION.

There seems to be a fraternity of fakirs, as there is of tramps. Word has been passed along the line that Colorado Springs is a good town to "work," and the ingenious gentry who make their living by schemes of various sorts are coming down upon us, not by ones or twos, but in bands and herds.

One of the early arrivals in the field was the Denver Times last New Year's. The way its agents worked the town seemed to them beautiful, and they put it down as the softest spot they had ever struck. Since then, the fame of the city as a good one to work has spread abroad. Another Denver man is here now or was, a few days ago trying to work the town for a city directory, and obtaining advertisements under the false pretense that he was going to have his work done at the Gazette office. There are plenty of others, too. Not a day passes but one of these gentry tries to work some kind of a scheme. One goes around to merchants and offers them advertising in a pamphlet he is getting up, and offers to "guarantee" a circulation of ten thousand. He gets advertisements on that basis, goes to the printing offices in town, finds that they will not take the work under a certain price, goes to Denver, gets a second-class house to do the work, prints one thousand copies, distributes them liberally among his advertisers, and goes on his way rejoicing. Of course nobody but the advertisers sees the pamphlet. But there are so many of these schemes that it is impossible to enumerate them. Most of them, however, are advertising schemes of one sort or another. They are all fakes; they are all intended only to make a little money for the soldiers of fortune who get them up, and there is no profit in any of them for any merchant or other business man in this city.

We don't believe in being too exclusive; but we do believe in patronizing home industries, national, state and city. If you are going to buy dry goods, don't send for samples to New York, but go to one of our local stores and see what they have. If you want to buy groceries, don't send to Park & Tilford, but go to a local place. If you need shoes, look in the advertising columns of the Gazette and see who has the kind you want. If you want to advertise your business, do it with the local papers, and don't be buncoed by every fakir that comes to town. If you want a good job of printing done, try a local house, and don't send it off to Denver because a smooth-tongued agent tells you it will be done cheaper there.

As the prosperity of this city, in comparison with the rest of the United States, becomes more and more evident, as it seems likely to all summer, there will be further swarms of fakirs of every description—promoters of shows and fairs and sure-thing investments, and advertising schemes till you can't rest. It may get so bad after a while that our business men will need a sign up to keep the fakirs away, and Marshal Dana may have to build a pound for them, and run them in. But news travels fast among these gentry, as we have said; give them "the marble heart" for a month or two, and there will not be so many of them. If the marble heart does not do the work; give them the lively toot. This city welcomes all business men who come here in good faith—but—we have no use for fakirs.

McKINLEY ON SILVER.

The position of Governor McKinley on the silver question has been exercising the minds of a good many Republicans in this part of the world, since it has become evident that he is at present the leading competitor in the contest for the Republican nomination for President.

It is perhaps fortunate for McKinley that the Evening Post of New York, a blind adherent of the single gold standard, has just published an article showing the record of the Ohio man on the silver question. It is so interesting that we make no apology for reprinting it in full:

"McKinley is a man above all others who is responsible for the abandonment by the Republican party of its courageous course of opposing soft-money ideas and for the substitution of the compromising policy which it has followed during the last eight years. In 1878 the record of the organization on this question was clear. In 1884 it made no further reference to the silver question than was found in a harmless resolution that 'we urge that efforts should be made to unite all commercial nations in the establishment of an international standard which shall fix for all the relative value of gold and silver coinage.'

"In the national convention of 1888 for the first time the Republican party left favor to the demands of the silverites, and McKinley is the man who advocated and expressed the surrender. He was made chairman of the committee on resolutions, and read the platform which contained this anomalous and astonishing plank on the silver question:

"'The Republican party is in favor of the use of both gold and silver as money, and condemns the policy of the Democratic administration in its efforts to demonetize silver.'

"The policy of the Cleveland administration regarding silver had differed in no respect from that of its Republican predecessors. Cleveland had urged a cessation of the coinage of silver dollars which could not be made to circulate, but so had Arthur. The influence of the Treasury department had been thrown against this policy under Manning and Fairchild from 1885 to 1888, but so had it also been under Folger and McCulloch from 1881 to 1885.

"The only possible meaning of the McKinley resolution, therefore, was that, if the Republicans should again come into power, they should cease to advocate the suspension of silver coinage, and would pass some act more favorable to the silverites than the then existing Bland-Allison act. This promise of the party was carried out by the passage in 1890 of the silver purchase act—that 'long yet prudent step towards free coinage,' as the Indiana Republicans styled it in their platform of that year. The Republicans of McKinley's State adopted a platform, declaring that 'we fully approve the wise action of the Republican members of both Houses of Congress in fulfilling the pledges of the party in legislation on the coinage of silver,' etc.

"McKinley grew more unrestrained in his championship of the free coinage cause as time passed. In February, 1891, he delivered a speech at Toledo in which he severely condemned Cleveland for maintaining the same attitude toward silver that had been held by his Republican predecessors, saying of his course:

"'During all of his years at the head of the government he was dishonoring one of our precious metals, one of our own great products, discrediting silver and enhancing the price of gold. He endeavored even before his inauguration to stop the coinage of silver dollars, and afterwards, and to the end of his administration, persistently used his power to that end. He was determined to contract the circulating medium and demonetize one of the coins of commerce, limit the volume of money among the people, make money scarce, and therefore dear. He would have increased the value of money and diminished the value of everything else money the master, everything else the servant.'

"Two years ago in another speech delivered in September, 1895, McKinley made still another bid for the silver vote talking in this strain: 'The silver product of this country, one of the most important we have, should not be discriminated against, (meaning, should not be treated as Cleveland and Arthur had advised), but some plan should be devised for its utilization as a money which will insure, not the displacement of gold, but the safe and full use of both, as exchanges among the people.'

"This review of McKinley's record shows that he has been the worst sort of a demagogue on the silver question, and that he is more responsible than any other man for the surrenders which the Republican party has made to the silver speculators. We have never had a President whose utterances furnished such cause for apprehension as is to be found in McKinley's speeches. What do the sound money Republicans of the East propose to do about it? Will they allow their party to nominate a man with such a record?"

These comments are, of course, expressive of the opinion of the Evening Post and the Mugwumps of whom it is the mouthpiece. The only answer that is necessary at this time is to ask the counter-question: "What do the sound-money Republicans of the West propose to do about it?"

"Sound money" in the Evening Post means a few millions of gold, and ten times as many millions of paper; sound money in Colorado means the gold and silver money of the Constitution. If it is true, as The Post seems to have demonstrated pretty conclusively, that McKinley is for the latter kind of sound money rather than for the former, it seems that he would be a good enough candidate for any Western man to support.

But McKinley is not the only Republican candidate who would be considered "unsound" by The Post. Reed and Allison and Quay are none of them gold men. In fact, unless we except Governor Morton, there is not one of the Republican aspirants for the nomination who is a believer in the policy of gold monometallism; and even Morton has never avowed any preference for the single standard.

Wanted—A Heavier Dog-Tax.

To the Editor of the Gazette.

Having noticed the City Council are calling a meeting to see if the people will stand a little more taxation in order to raise a little more money for things that are very much needed; please allow me to make a suggestion. Why not give us a little of the Massachusetts law in regard to a lot of worthless dogs which, if put in force, would provide all the funds necessary for all our needs, as the city seems to be full of them, and I will venture to say there are as many dogs as there are tax-payers. Now, the law in Massachusetts is that every owner or keeper of a dog shall pay a tax or license of $2, and $5 for every female dog; said license to be paid on or before the 1st day of May in each year, and every dog so licensed shall wear a collar with the owner's or keeper's name with the number of his license marked distinctly thereon. And all owners or keepers of dogs who fail to comply with this law shall pay a penalty of $10 and be liable to have his dog killed. I think such a law would bring in quite a revenue for the treasury, as well as to put a stop to the raising of a lot of worthless curs.

CITIZEN.

Mr. Teller's Position.

Senator Teller in his speech of yesterday expressed his view on the present revenue bill even more clearly and explicitly than heretofore. He repeats emphatically that the bill is not an ordinary tariff bill, that it is a mere partisan expedient, and that in voting against it he and his colleagues have not in any manner opposed the general principle of protection of American industries from foreign competition. In these declarations Mr. Teller removes himself still farther from the position in which the two Republican papers of Denver have attempted to place him. They have declared "No silver, no tariff," but this is not at all a declaration that Mr. Teller has made. He may yet make it, but he has not given an indication of so doing. He has not even assumed the attitude of attempting to coerce his fellow legislators into voting for silver. He evidently knows a good deal about the pending revenue bill which we in the west have not considered, or have not been made acquainted with, and his rejection of it has nothing whatever to imply of a departure from protective tariffs.

The Denver papers have a right to assert the dogma of "no tariff, no silver"—there is no law against their doing so, but up to the present writing the Colorado Senators have certainly not coincided with that view. And, on the whole, the views and acts of the Colorado Senators are somewhat more important than those of the Denver papers.—(Pueblo Chieftain.

A Kentucky Republican.

The strife between Hunter and Blackburn is a singular one, and has been made interesting because of the widely differing personalities of the men. Blackburn is a Kentuckian, with all the faults and many of the virtues of natives of the State. He is handsome, an orator, a talker, a lover of race horses, a judge of whisky and of poker, ever ready to make a speech or to join a convivial crowd. Hunter is a naturalized Irishman, and although his birth ought to make him a thorough Kentuckian, he is in most respects the exact opposite of his rival. He is a handsome, well-dressed man of affable manners, but there all likeness stops. He never bets, in public or private; he neither drinks, smokes, nor chews; he never swears, nor plays cards, nor patronizes horse races, and he is an elder in the Presbyterian Church. He does not come from the blue grass region, as did the late James B. Beck, but from an obscure little hamlet in the southern part of the State, 40 miles from a railroad, and shut off from the world by a high ridge of the Cumberland mountains. He is not a lawyer, but a physician, and, considering his tastes and manner of life, he ought to be an unknown practitioner instead of the leader of the dominant party in the commonwealth and a competitor for succession to the place once filled by men like Clay and Beck. However, Hunter is the most adroit politician in the State. He did as much as Governor Bradley to wrest Kentucky from Democratic rule, and if he should win the Senatorial fight he would be the real master of the party. He cannot be the Beck of the Republicans, for he has not the burly Scot's breadth of mind and vast store of information, but he might easily become the Matthew S. Quay of the South. He possesses marvelous skill as a political organizer, which quite makes up for his lack of oratorical ability. When occasion demands it he can make a fair stump speech, but he is not eloquent nor forceful, and he realizes it.—(New York Sun.

The Art of Distribution.

The art of distribution aims to make the newspaper advertisement as entertaining as the news of the day, and in the prosecution of this aim calls into play talents and pens once devoted wholly to the literature of journalism; presenting with peculiar attractiveness and force the thing advertised, whether it be a novelty in ribbon or a deal in real estate. Advertising space is not cheap in papers worthy of the business man's considerations, therefore it is essential that not a word be wasted, and that the most effective phrase be constructed. Terseness, comprehensiveness and the power to interest are the attributes of the successful writer of advertisements in this year of grace, combining to constitute the art of distribution and giving the business man and his wares a place in the public eye not inferior to that claimed by the great events of the world for the current day.

Our leading merchants are as well known by name and occupation as are our leading statesmen. Their merchantile homes are as familiar as our public institutions. Their daily announcements are a necessity to the resident and a guide to the stranger within our gates. That our great retail establishments more and more absorb or crowd from the field the smaller dealers does not represent the crime of suppression, but the virtue of advertising as the secret of extension. In this fact is crystalized the genius of the mercantile development of the age, which is still in its infancy. It is the art of distribution.—(The Mail and Express.

Where Utah Stands.

There isn't any doubt about the feeling of Utah people respecting silver; there's no occasion for any bumptious demonstration in regard to the matter just now; there's no doubt where we shall all be found at the proper time; there's no reason why anybody here should jump into the ring with a whoop to fight imaginary foes in the mountain country, for there are no foes to silver here; there's no reason why anyone should adorn himself with silver feathers and strut about as the special champion of silver, in the endeavor to steal the thunder of those who were silver champions before the later mouth-servers heard of the question. Let's all keep cool, be alert, and strike when the right time comes, not before.—(Salt Lake Tribune.

Anti British.

It is the sordid and base desire to rob Venezuela of her gold which is at the bottom of the crooked schemes to warp our government from the path of duty, and to permit Great Britain to keep gold-bearing districts on the shameless plea of an occupation, which was only rendered possible by Lord Salisbury's arbitrary act.—(New York Sun.

THE PROGRESS OF THE REVIVAL.

General Interest Awakened Throughout the City.

TO-DAY'S SPECIAL FEATURES.

Praise Service with Children's Chorus at 7 O'Clock To-night—An Attractive Topic for the Bible Reading This Afternoon.

Another business men's meeting was held yesterday with a large attendance of business men, and much interest manifested. After an introductory song service, Major Hilton talked on "Power" and what constituted it. These meetings have proved so profitable and enjoyable that it is probable that another may be held on Monday. There was a large attendance at last evening's meeting, the entire lower part of the Coliseum being well filled. Major Hilton delivered a particularly powerful address on the words "The thought of foolishness is sin, the thoughts of the righteous are wise."

One of the pastors of the city who has been a leading worker stated last evening that the interest is being quickened all over the city, and men who have always scoffed at religion have become interested in the meetings and have shown a desire for a Christian life. There is every indication that the meetings of today, Sunday and Monday, will exceed in interest and power all that have preceded. The afternoon meetings which have been gaining in interest and attendance since the first week, will this afternoon be of particular interest. Reverend Leo Boone Thomas, pastor of the First Baptist church will lead the devotional meeting at 2:30, taking as the topic "Through Christ Overcoming," and all are urged to attend this meeting as being introductory to the Bible reading which immediately follows. The subject which Major Hilton has selected for today's reading is "Peace that Passeth Understanding," and it is believed that it will be one of the most interesting of the series.

At 4 o'clock the choir will meet at the Coliseum, and will be photographed in front of the building. At 7 o'clock beginning promptly there will be a praise service. In addition to the main chorus, which will occupy the platform as usual, there will be a large chorus of children in the back gallery, and the responsive singing of the two choruses will be a special feature of the meeting. The children will be dismissed at half past seven.

The Sunday school teachers of the city have been urged to do a little visiting if necessary in order to make sure that the members of their classes will be on hand at their respective churches at 9 o'clock on Sunday morning and from there march to the Coliseum, where the Sunday School rally is to be held at 9:30.

RARE CURIOS.

Mrs. Wood Gave Her Friends a Special Treat Yesterday.

Mrs. F. Ogilvy-Wood's home at Edgewood for the past two days has presented a scene that would delight an antiquarian and excite the admiration of all lovers of the rare and beautiful. Mrs. Wood has arranged her large collection of antiques and curios for an exhibition to her friends and the house is filled from top to bottom with the unique and remarkable collection.

To mention all the interesting articles would require an extensive catalogue. There is rare china, antique furniture, costumes worn a century ago, laces, camel's hair shawls, fans, old books and documents, coins, medallions, miniatures, portraits, ancient English silver and other rare and valuable articles too numerous even to mention.

Among those which deserve particular mention are two chairs made from the wood of the old state house tower in Philadelphia, from which liberty was rung forth; a dress worn at the Lafayette ball in Washington, in 1824; a four-post teak wood bedstead on which was a very remarkable quilt, with patch work applique in several thousand pieces. Among the interesting old books was "The Caricaturists Annual," with illustrations by Cruikshank, and many volumes of the Eighteenth century. There is an old naval log book containing among other manuscript records a journal written on board the United States frigate Brandywine. The parlor contains two old portraits by Sully, and there is also an interesting sketch made for a member of Mrs. Wood's family by Col. Strother (Porte rayon) the illustrator for Harper's during the civil war. The dining room contains a handsome old English silver service, also an extensive collection of Royal Canton china and willow ware of the "two little men on the bridge" pattern, one of the oldest patterns made.

Mrs. Wood has been a collector all her life and her mother before her, so that she has inherited many of her rarest specimens.

SATOLLI COMING.

The American Ablegate will be Here on March 4.

Cardinal Satolli will visit Colorado Springs and the first honors paid him in this State will be in this city. Father Bender has so decided it and thereby will do much to allay the troubles that have arisen among the churchmen in Denver. It has been decided that the Cardinal shall come here first and will arrive on a morning train. That will be on the morning of March 4th. He will then be entertained at breakfast by Father Bender, when he will meet eminent members of the clergy of the Roman church in Colorado among whom will be Father Malone. After the breakfast the Cardinal and suite will be driven to Manitou and other points of interest. They will go to Denver over the D. and R. G. road and then will begin a series of fetes and entertainments in his honor.

Father Bender as chairman of the reception committee, is working hard with his preparations and gaining laurels from the Denver churchmen. The arrangements rather preclude our citizens from showing the distinguished prelate any attentions, as he will be there for such a short time and that in the early morning hours.

Adverse Suits.

Three adverse suits were filed yesterday as follows:

A. L. Andrew et al. vs. the Silver State M. and M. Co., the Nancy adversing the Alice E.

The Chicolo Gold M. Co. vs. Harry Horsfall et al., the Cyclone adversing the Chicolo.

Anna R. Boymer et al. vs. J. Arthur [illegible], the Will [illegible] adversing the Lost Chord.

James O'Neill.

James O'Neill's performance of "Virginius" in Sheridan Knowles's tragedy by that name has been one of this and last season's banner events. Although the public for the last 20 years has recognized the dramatic treasure it possessed in this popular actor, it is doubtful if any of his great interpretations, that of "Monte Cristo" included, has left such a deep impression upon his audiences as his grand portrayal of his classical Roman hero. In fact, Mr. O'Neill is said to be the noblest Roman of them all, combining Forrest's virile strength with John McCullough's infinite tenderness. The public may convince itself of the truth of this statement by going to the Opera House on next Thursday evening when "Virginius" will be played the first night, while the Phoenix-like "Monte Cristo" will follow on the second. Mr. O'Neill's inspired performance of Dumas's hero is as familiar to all theatergoers as Joe Jefferson's "Rip Van Winkle." Its charm is everlasting. Mr. O'Neill's company is said to be excellent and both plays will be mounted in a magnificent manner.

WEST CREEK'S FIRST SHIPMENT.

Sent from the Vermillion Group Yesterday.

The miners and people generally of the district were wild with excitement yesterday over the shipment of the first carload of ore. The shipment was made by The Vermillion Mining Company, and the wagons after being loaded were taken to Pemberton and decorated with banners and a procession started with them to South Platte. The ore is taken from the Iron Dyke, the most promising of the Vermillion group, situated on the east slope of Thunder Butte mountain, about two and a half miles north of Pemberton. The shaft is now down 40 feet, is well timbered, and shows an excellent vein, the foot wall of which is being followed, the hanging wall not having been found as yet. The ore being shipped at this time is taken from a streak about two feet across and is a grayish quartz heavily stained with sulphide of iron and interspersed with layers of talc.

From the bottom of the shaft last night a piece of ore was taken that has a blue streak through it having all the appearances of tellurium and is so pronounced by all mining men who examined it at that time. The vein of the Le Roy dips slightly to the west and will be followed, to a depth of 50 feet, when a cross cut will be run in order to find the walls and line up the vein matter. It is thought the ore being shipped will run at least $30 to the ton, and if this prove true nothing can prevent the great rush to the district in consequence.

The management of the Vermillion company are to be congratulated upon the energy displayed and their untiring efforts which have been crowned with such magnificent success, and this should be a great encouragement for the thousands of others now operating in the district.

One of the best strikes yet made in the district is in a shaft being put down by John Anisfield at Woodland Park, a claim called the Midland. This shaft was started with the expectation of cutting a quartzite dyke that was known to run in the vicinity. The vein has been uncovered, and while no assay has been obtained as yet, the ore is known to be very rich.

A genuine mine that will prove a rich one has been developed in the Alta Vista, of the Le Roy Mining Company, three miles from Woodland Park. While the shaft is only down eight feet, the vein is already lined up and in place, and is as fine as ever seen, consisting of alternate streaks of porphyry, phonolite and jasper quartz. Upon the comparison of a piece of the porphyry with a piece from the Cripple Creek district no difference whatever can be distinguished. No assays or tests have as yet been had from this shaft, but it is agreed by mining experts who have examined the vein and the formation contained in it that the Le Roy Company already have a mine in the Alta Vista. This company has also run a 20-foot tunnel on the Monte Vista, one of their group near Woodland, which shows a good vein.

W. F. Powers, superintendent of the Wells-Fargo Express company, is in the district and has effected a deal whereby the express matter of that company will come into Pemberton and intermediate points over the Pemberton-Moore stage line. The company will have its own agent in Pemberton, and all the advantages offered by new express office will be afforded. Mr. W. F. Bailey, general passenger agent of the Colorado Midland, is also in the district, and states that a line of tickets will soon be placed on sale at Pemberton by the Pemberton-Moore Stage company over their line and to any and all points on the Midland and all points east and west. This in connection with the express facilities now offered, will add much to the conveniences of the district.

Railroad passenger men moved on the city in a body last night, and the hotel registers were filled with their names. Among those were J. F. Hall, general agent of the Santa Fe at Denver; Edwin Tears of the New York Central; George T. Hull of the Pennsylvania, J. T. Matthes of the Burlington, John Darling of the Denver and Rio Grande, H. Wheeler of the Northwestern, and others. They are visiting the local railroad men.

ILLEGAL BOND SCHEMES.

A Number of Investment Companies Debarred from the Mails.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Attorney General Harmon to-day submitted to Postmaster General Wilson a decision to the effect that the numerous bond and investment schemes conducted throughout the country are lotteries and not entitled to the privileges of the mails. Test cases sent to Attorney General Harmon by Postmaster General Wilson were those of the Pettis County Bond Investment company of Sedalia, Mo.; Tontine association of Minneapolis; Columbia Investment company of Cincinnati; the National Investment company of Cincinnati; the National Investment company of Washington, D. C., and the Southern Mutual Investment company of Lexington, Ky.

Attorney General Harmon, in his opinion, considered chiefly the case of the Pettis Investment company, the most important one argued before the department, which the Attorney General says covers all the others which are alike in design and differ only in details and methods. They induce subscriptions for bonds by holding out the chance of receiving large sums for small payments, the chance depending on the numbering of the bonds. Without the ever present chance of speedily getting much for little, not one of these companies would attempt to do business or succeed in the attempt.

The Pettis company, the Attorney General says, has only a capital of $2,000, but $160,000 of bonds have been deposited in its behalf as required by the law of Missouri from insurance and other companies. This, of course, has been done by its promoters, and shows their faith in the profitableness of the scheme.

It has been argued that the "investments" offered by these companies do not differ in principle from insurance, and are in fact fairer and better, because the bondholder does not have to die or lose his property to realize on them. The Attorney General says the fallacy of this contention consists in confusing mere chance with uncertainty. One's property may not burn at all, and the time he will die is not known, but neither event depends upon mere chance, and the law, therefore, recognizes contracts contingent upon them while it does not countenance lotteries.

The Attorney General therefore concludes that all companies which promise payments to parts only of a class who all stand on an equal footing, leaving the selection to depend on any rule of hazard whether such payments constitute the entire scheme of their business or are connected with other features which would not, by themselves be objectionable, come within the provisions of the anti-lottery law and are not entitled to the use of the United States mails.

WANG AND CHANG.

Two Chinese Statesmen Who Have Been Dismissed.

Tokio, Japan, Feb. 11.—(Correspondence of the United Press, per Steamer Belgic.)—The Emperor of China recently cashiered, and dismissed forever from the public service, Wang, vice president of the board of civil appointments, and Chang, vice president of the board of revenue. Last year, according to some authorities, when Pekin was in terror of a Japanese attack, an intrigue is said to have been set on foot to destroy the influence of the Empress Dowager, and, perhaps, to divide the court against itself. Other historians of current events allege that no intrigue existed, but that many loyal servants of the crown, indignant at the abject humiliation suffered by the country in consequence of the total breakdown of the military and naval defenses organized and controlled by the Empress Dowager's nominees, notably the Viceroy Li, were unable to confine their expressions of anger within prudent limits. Whether intriguers or patriots, Wang and Chang used some very strong language at an audience with the Emperor. No notice was taken of their words at the time, but nine months afterwards the Emperor issued a decree in which they were sentenced as above described. It is reported that Chang has died heart-broken, and that Wang has become a suicidal maniac.

The Pekin ministry of war has resolved to establish in different parts of the city, schools in each of which 500 lads will receive military training under foreign officers and graduates of the Tientsin military academy.

For the moment an exceptional calm reigns over the generally troubled sea of Korean politics. The cabinet seems to be firmly set. It is a progressive cabinet, friendly to Japan. Moreover, there are no indications of Russian intrigue or interference.

LI HUNG CHANG COMING

He Will Return from St. Petersburg by Way of the U. S.

Washington, Feb. 27.—When it was announced some days ago that Li Hung Chang, the famous Chinese statesman, had been appointed to represent the Emperor at the coronation of the Czar and Czarina of Russia at Moscow he was, the Hon. John W. Foster of this city who was associated with Li as counsel in the peace negotiations with Japan last summer, invited him to visit the United States en route to Russia. Mr. Foster has received a telegram from Li acknowledging the receipt of the invitation, and saying that he had decided to return to China from Russia by way of Europe and the United States. No date was fixed for his coming, but a visit to this country may be expected from the distinguished Chinaman some time during the summer.

Verdict Against Mike McDonald.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—After a long and closely contested trial, a jury in Judge Burke's court this morning returned a verdict awarding ex-Judge Lambert Tree, former minister to Belgium $38,320 damages against Michael C. McDonald, known in gambling and turf circles of the country as "Mike" McDonald. The action grew out of the renting of the Garfield Park race tracks owned by Judge Tree, to the Garfield Park club, McDonald, it was claimed, guaranteed the rent and the point on which the defense rested to win was that the ex-minister knew that the law against gambling was being violated on his property, and therefore had no right to recover, having rented the track for gambling purposes. Judge Tree, however, swore he was ignorant of betting on the races there. McDonald will be sued for $20,000 more rent due from the defunct club under the lease.

Another Case of Consumption Cured in Colorado Springs.

I will be pleased to personally explain to any one my experience with the Fullerton Consumptive Cure. I was afflicted with this terrible disease about two years ago, had all the usual symptoms, fever, chills, hemorrhages, cough, expectoration and night sweats. I took all kinds of medicine and treatment, but gradually found myself failing in strength and flesh. I then tried this climate with no avail. At this time about three months ago, a friend advised me to try the Fullerton Cure and at this present writing all my former symptoms have passed away and I feel perfectly well in every respect and I know this remedy has saved my life.

Mines, Stocks, Investments

Colorado Springs Mining Stock Association.

Colorado Springs, Feb. 27.—Business at the Exchange continues to rule lively and prices also continue low. Argentum-Juniata is still about the strongest stock on the list selling at from 63½ to 64½ in fair sized blocks, the last transaction being made at 63¾. Work made quite a good showing considering the general state of the market, and was responsible for about 35,000 shares out of the total. It started to sell at 17, but gained several points and was going at 17½ at the close at which it appeared to be in pretty good demand. Isabella was once again a good seller, but remained at about the same price as upon the previous day, changing hands at from 10¾ to 10½ the stamped stock was going at from 49 to 50. A livelier seller than this was Union, with 16,200 shares to its credit. It was weaker even than upon the previous day, selling at from 51 to 51½, improving a little towards the close and winding up in good demand at the higher figures. Portland started in at $1.62 and went several cents below $1.60, the closing transactions being consummated at $1.56½ and $1.57. Hayden declined to 7, at which it was weak and Bob Lee, Franklin and Marion Gold were all slumpy. Creede and Cripple Creek and Fanny R. both hold their own fairly well, and both were good sellers.

That Humbolt Consolidated Deal.

The Hon. A. M. Leddy with his partner, Charles Dickens, are large holders of Humboldt Consolidated stock and when The Gazette published an account of a deal in the stock in which it was alleged that the Western Finance company had a hand they at once made enquiries at the headquarters of the company. The following reply was received to their letter:

Denver, Feb. 25, 1896.

Hon. M. A. Leddy, Exchange National Bank Building, Colorado Springs, Colo.—My Dear Sir: Yours of Feb. 25 is at hand, with newspaper clipping. I very much regret the circumstances which you relate, and the notoriety which the thing has received, and think that it is liable to affect Humboldt stock somewhat, as it is a sort of reflection on our company. However, I can assure you that no officer or director of the company has had anything to do with the same, and that this Mr. Young was not an authorized agent of anyone connected with the company or for the company. I do not know him personally.

Of course what outsiders who pick up odd blocks of stock may do in relation to selling personal stock, we are powerless to help but the statements in that newspaper article, if they are correct regarding Young and his representations, are representations made without any authority from any of us. We ignore and repudiate any such representations.

We are trying to do the best we can and our stock is not put upon the market in any way. Our stock is not listed and never has been listed nor offered with our authority or consent upon any exchange, neither have we ever appointed any official broker or any broker at all for us.

The company's properties are all being patented, and development work will be pushed upon them and all that we have ever claimed, as a company, is this: that we have plenty of property, paid for, that we are out of debt, that we are developing our properties, and that every cent put in the treasury of the company will be honestly spent for the development of the company's properties, and for the promotion of the company's interests, and that our enterprise has [illegible] mining speculation, and that our books, accounts and affairs are handled economically and correctly. No promoter, director, or officer of the company has unloaded a share of personal stock.

I wish you would do what you can to correct the statements published in The Gazette, and you are at liberty to use this letter, if you desire, in that connection. Yours very truly,

WM. G. SMITH.

The Trouble Settled.

All the trouble between the Triangle and Sunol claims and the properties of the Parnassus company has been settled by a consolidation of the interests involved. The Parnassus claims were originally owned by Mr. E. O. Downing, who sold them to Dr. Emma Helwig of Chicago. The other claims were owned by Messrs. Bodfish and J. K. Miller, and a settlement was affected by the latter gentlemen taking one-third of the capitalization of the Parnassus company's stock. The claims should patent between fourteen and fifteen acres and they are located on Mineral hill.

The Lincoln-Grover Cleveland Strike.

The strike recently made by lessees on Gold hill and which was credited to the Lincoln lode belonging to the Virginia company, was in reality made on the Grover Cleveland lode, belonging to the Anaconda company. It is, however, practically one and the same thing as the two claims are close together and the vein runs across them.

The vein was first opened up on the Lincoln by lessees and when they quit Messrs. Kronkheit and associates secured a lease on the Grover Cleveland from the Anaconda company. They had but little difficulty in opening up the lead on that ground and upon sinking struck a good ore chute which will run better than $20 to the ton across a foot of the vein.

The vein will run between 400 and 500 feet across the Lincoln and enters close to the northeast corner of the property.

PRINCESS ANNUAL MEETING.

Dividends Amounting to $35,000 Have Been Paid.

The annual meeting of the Princess Gold Mining company was held at the office of Messrs. V. Z. Reed & Co., on Wednesday last. The reports of the various officers showed that the affairs of the company were in excellent condition.

The treasurer's report showed that during the past year $35,000 had been distributed among the stockholders in dividends and that there still remained to the credit of the company $1,469 and 12,500 shares of stock. Titles have been secured on all the company's properties and the estimates on the value of the assets is $165,000.

The directors have ratified a lease and bond granted some time ago to Mr. F. L. Wright on the Grey Eagle lode. It comprises over two acres of ground and the bond calls for $35,000; $2,000 of which is to be paid on the first day of July, $4,000 on the first of September and $4,000 on the first of every month after until the full amount is paid. The lease runs for one year with the usual royalties. Mr. Wright is a well known miner and has opened up a number of fine properties in camp, including Bankers, Garfield Grouse, Geneva, and Mary Nevin.

The company voted to pursue an aggressive policy and with this end in view has engaged a competent superintendent and will develop its own property. The major part of the Princess stock is held by the original owners. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Verner Z. Reed; vice-president, R. P. Davis; secretary and treasurer, Ira P. Trickey. These gentlemen, together with W. H. Southerland, Hugh F. Reed, Oliver H. Shoup and Hans E. G. Saabye, form the directorate.

EXCHANGE CHANGES.

Another Consolidation and Change of Location.

An arrangement was fully completed at 6 o'clock last evening by which the "Colorado Springs Stock Exchange," better known by its charter name of "The Colorado Springs Open Mining Stock association," absorbs the Open Board of Brokers, taking in a total of 99 members. The arrangement includes the transfer of the property formerly owned by the Open Board of Brokers, but the calls will be held at 114 East Pike's Peak and not in the rooms of the brokers' board.

The Board of Trade have been using the latter rooms during the day time, for some time past, but at a recent meeting a majority of the members expressed a preference for the quarters occupied by the Consolidated Exchange. Inasmuch as there is some disagreement between the Board of Trade and the Open Board of Brokers in regard to the matter of rent it is not decided when the Board of Trade will return to the Durkee building if at all.

A statement that the plans for consolidation of the Open Board and the Board of Trade have fallen through is rather misleading, for the matter of consolidation has never been considered or proposed by either side. The Open Board of Brokers wished to have brokers from the Board of Trade participate in their night call and an agreement was prepared and signed by three individual members of the latter board though without authority from the directors, that the members of the Board of Trade, should they so elect, might individually join the night exchange and trade upon its floor. When the matter was brought to the attention of the present directors of the Board of Trade, they, believing it to be detrimental to the interest of the board, refused to ratify the agreement.

The consolidation of the Open Board of Brokers and the "Colorado Springs Stock Exchange" gives the latter a membership of about 315.

Straub Mountain.

Count Henry Lubienski, who represents Chicago capital in the Cripple Creek district, and friends have purchased five claims on Straub mountain, which they organized as the Bonanza Cripple Creek Gold Mining company. At a depth of 85 feet, in the Garfield shaft, a large ore chute was recently opened up, giving returns of $22 per ton. The Garland is near the Prospect, which is using the first steam hoist erected on Straub mountain, a section of the camp which was ruled "no good" six months ago. The Count departs for Victor to-day to push work on his claims.

The Alice Gray group on Straub mountain is being systematically worked by a company of Colorado Springs people. Principal work done is on the Alice Gray claim, which is patented. The shaft has been sunk 70 feet, but the vein has been irregular though following the course of a phonolite slip. Thin streaks of ore have been found assaying into the hundreds of dollars. For [illegible] are in the mount upon which patent has been applied for—Exchange.

Still More Ore.

Word from the superintendent of the Squaw Mountain Tunnel company yesterday was to the effect that from now on more ore would be taken out than ever before and with less expense as so much development and dead work had been done.

A new station has been cut out and from here a winze is being sunk in a big body of ore that runs six ounces in gold to the ton, which the superintendent says has the appearance of getting richer.

The tunnel is being pushed at this time, and the indications lead the workers to suppose that another vein is about to be cut.

Notes About the Moon-Anchor.

The Moon-Anchor company has just received smelter returns for over 70 tons of ore sent out recently, which netted the company within a few cents of $70 per ton. The ore from which these returns were received was not sorted but taken from the drifts and shipped as it was found. The output of the property is now about 90 tons per week

Current News.

Mr. V. Z. Reed has received an order to buy Portland should the stock touch $1 50 It was a canny Scott that sent the order across the Rocky road.

—Broker T. C. Delany of Denver was in the city yesterday. Delany & Delany's office here is being handsomely refurnished and many improvements made

The Gerhart lease, now belonging to the Marjory Leasing company, will ship a car of ore in a day or two which it is estimated will run about $80 per ton. Pay ore is being taken out in two places.

A very good amount of business is being done by the brokers every day and the times are bright in comparison with what it was a year ago The higher priced stocks are the heavy traders.

Eight shifts a day are being put in on development on the Big Bull mountain properties of the National Gold Reserve company. The San Francisco has a tunnel 110 feet in length, the Minnie shaft is 30 feet deep and that on the New York 86 Work now being done is to patent the eight properties William Dunn and L. P. Rudolph of Victor are directing the affairs of the company

A good vein of ore has been opened in the Christmas on Straub mountain owned by the Bull Hill and Straub Mountain company. The vein is opened at the contact between porphyry and granite

The carload of ore from the Vermillion group in the West Creek district arrived here last night It will be sent to the sampling works to-day and in a day or two the owners will know whether they have anything or not.—Republican

Mr Ramsey C Bogy of the Ramsey C Bogy Investment company of Denver is now in Cripple Creek and from there will go to St Louis before returning to the capital. It is mining business of course.

At the Los Angeles considerable ore is being taken out A 50 foot sinking contract has just been completed making the shaft 150 feet deep Two car of ore will be shipped from the mine to-morrow, one high grade and one second grade stuff

The King of Diamonds shipped a car of ore yesterday and Manager Parfet expects to at once open up ground for stoping and believes he can keep the production at ten tons a day from this time on

Some very rich float has been picked up on the Alhambra on the north slope of Squaw mountain during the past few days and prospectors are at work trying to locate the vein.

The new town of West Gillett has suddenly sprung into existence On last Friday morning its foundations were laid Grover Cleveland was the cause of it and if he does nothing better for the whole Western country during the remainder of his term of office he may at least point with some pride to the fact that he was indirectly without knowing it, however, the medium in bringing forth a new townsite in a rich gold district West Gillett relies for its growth and future prosperity upon the fact that it is about one mile nearer the mines of the district than is Gillett Both towns will probably live and thrive.—Victor Record

The Squaw Mountain tunnel has penetrated the hill for a distance of 1660 feet, cutting a number of veins on the way. Enough ore to meet the pay roll, about $6000 a month is taken from development work on the vein cut at 900 feet A drift to south has been run on this for 300 feet; the ore chute ran for 40 feet on the vein, and yesterday a second chute of $40 ore was drifted into During February a winze was sunk on the rich ore of the first chute for 25 feet and only the ore extracted from it was produced The Ray vein of the Papoose company was cut at the side line of the property, and found striking into the Greenwood location of the tunnel company It is 16 feet in width, but a drift of 40 feet on the foot wall has so far failed to reveal any pay ore The managers expect to cut within the next 20 feet a blind lead the changes in the rock forecasting it

EASTERN MARKETS.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

New York, Feb 27.—Money on call has been easy at 3@4 per cent., last loan at 3 and closing offered at 3. Prime mercantile paper 6@7 per cent. Bar silver 64⅞ Mexican dollars 51½@65¾ Sterling exchange is firm with actual business in bankers' bills at $4 86@4 86¾ for 60 days and $4 87½@4 88 for demand. Posted rates $4 87@4 88½, commercial bills $4 85¾@4 86¼ Government bonds steady; railroad bonds lower. State bonds dull. Silver at the board was quiet.

The sensation on the stock exchange to-day was the break in Baltimore and Ohio of 6 per cent to 26 The break in the stock was due to rumors that the company will default on its March interest, that a receivership is imminent and that a new bond issue is likely at any time. Late in the day bankers who have lately taken an interest in the property emphatically denied the unfavorable reports referred to above, and President Cowen stated that according to the expert's examination which has been completed, the condition of the company is as represented to the board of directors of Feb. 1 He also said that the plan for the rehabilitation of the property has progressed so far as to meet with the approval of the directors and will be ready for announcement in a short time. Leather preferred was decidedly weaker and dropped 4 per cent to 61¾. The passing of the dividend had an adverse influence. Tobacco, after breaking to 91½ suddenly jumped to 95¾, and closed at 94¾. Sugar was sold down from 118¾ to 118¼, and rallied to 118¾ The break in Baltimore and Ohio weakened the general railway list for a time, but in the late trading the sold-out bulls and bears made efforts to recover their stock. Prices improved, but near the close when Leather preferred dropped to its lowest point, the market weakened and left off about steady in tone Net changes show gains of ¼@1⅛ per cent Leather preferred lost 4 and Baltimore and Ohio 4¾ per cent. Total sales were 212,350 shares Bonds were lower. The transactions footed up only $1,216,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Feb 27.—The Cincinnati Price Current was out with an estimate on the farm reserve of wheat, estimating it at 20,000,000 bushels less than on March 1 last This makes the third estimate this week, each of which received due attention and consideration. In recognition of this morning's figures prices advanced a little, but failed to maintain the advantage gained The weather bureau's prediction of a decided drop in the temperature occasioned a slight spurt of strength when made public. The business was largely local with some fair-sized transactions. Liverpool cables were quiet and steady. Receipts in the Northwest were large at 465 cars against 354 last Thursday, and on a year ago Chicago had 59 cars and inspected out 117,000 bushels. Closing continental cables were general lower Export clearances were moderate at 275,754 bushels Shortly after noon the feeling became weaker and prices dropped on freer offerings but before the close a complete rally occurred shorts covering with some briskness May wheat opened at 67⅛ ¼@½ higher than yesterday. Estimated receipts for to-morrow 60 cars

Corn displayed no independence relying entirely on wheat for motive and inspiration Receipts 370 cars were 50 more than expected and 121 550 bushels were taken from store Liverpool cables were quiet and unchanged Trade did not deviate from its usual monotonous course All the call session was noted Export clearances were 238,000 bushels May corn opened at 30⅝@30⅞, declined to 30½ closing at 30⅝@30¾, unchanged from yesterday Estimated receipts for to-morrow 310 cars

CUBA AND HER BELLIGERENCY.

An Exciting Topic Discussed From Washington.

WHY SHE WANTS RECOGNITION.

Walter Wellman Gives a Clear Statement of Conditions and What May Grow Out of Them—Senator Morgan's Prediction.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. [Special.] For several days Cuba has been the most exciting topic of discussion in Washington. Rumors have been in circulation to the effect that, in case of adoption by congress of a resolution recognizing a state of war in Cuba, the Spanish minister at this capital would be instructed by his government to demand his pass-ports and to return home, but it has been impossible to verify the story. Senor de Lome, the Spanish minister, refuses to talk about the matter. No doubt exists that the government of Spain views with angry eyes the efforts of the congress of the United States to give assistance to Cuba. Considerable excitement was caused by Senator Morgan's prediction, made on the floor of the senate a few days ago, that he believed war between the United States and Spain over Cuba was inevitable, but in diplomatic circles one is unable to find much agreement with this opinion. It is pointed out that, while Spain might be very angry indeed in case the United States should go too far in its efforts to help Cuba, a declaration of war against the United States would certainly prove fatal to the efforts to retain possession of the rich island of Cuba. Spain is in no condition to combat the first of American republics. Her hands are pretty full already.

Spain's Financial Condition.

It is pointed out by a member of the diplomatic corps familiar with Spain's affairs that the Spanish treasury is not in good condition. The national credit is low and has been severely strained by the cost of the Cuban war. Loans have been floated in Paris and London, and at last the Spanish government has been driven to the desperate expedient of causing the Bank of Havana to issue paper notes, which the people are compelled to accept at par. Hot tempered, proud and arrogant as are the Spanish, it is believed here they would think several times before going to war with the United States.

Senator Morgan declared in his sensational speech that Spain would prefer to lose Cuba to the United States at the point of the sword than to part with the island for a price in cash. What authority Senator Morgan had for this statement he declines to say, but it is evident that information of a confidential nature has come to him or the late chairman of the foreign relations committee of the senate. It is believed he has had conversation with the Spanish minister here, and that Senor de Lome, who is nothing if not a diplomatist, endeavored in advance of consideration of the Cuban question by the senate to spread the impression that such expression on the part of the congress of the United States would be surely followed by war. If this was intended as a measure of intimidation it is not likely to be successful, for the indications now are that the house of representatives, as well as the senate, will take some decisive action upon the question of Cuban independence.

Cuba's Geographical Position.

The suggestion has been made in official circles that Spain has some secret understanding with England or other European power by which Cuba is to be sold to that power in case it should become necessary to yield to the revolutionists. There are plenty of public men here who believe that Spain has such an understanding, but on making inquiry at the state department I am assured this is highly improbable. The traditional and oft declared policy of the United States is that Cuba must never pass from the hands of Spain into those of any other foreign power. This policy is well understood throughout Europe. It is so well understood that any European government buying Cuba of Spain would know that it was buying war with the United States, and it is not supposable that any European government is anxious to measure swords with this country.

Besides, the justice of this contention of the United States is everywhere recognized. It needs no Monroe doctrine to make clear the right which the United States has to protect itself from such a redistribution of territory and of strategic advantage as would be contained in a scheme to transfer Cuba to another power. Cuba lies only 60 miles or so from the soil of the United States. It guards the entrance to the great gulf of Mexico, which washes the shores of a vast region of American territory, and is the outlet of our great inland watercourse, the Mississippi river. No other nation in the world would permit Cuba to pass from Spain to a European power were it situated relative to that island as the United States is. Few of the European nations, were they occupying our place, would have permitted Spain to retain possession of that rich and important island as long as she has. England, for instance, would long ago doubtless have declared that possession of Cuba was vital to her safety and welfare and proceeded to take it by main force.

Motive For Seeking Recognition.

In view of the showing made by Senator Cameron and others in the senate debate concerning the practical effect of recognition of a state of war in Cuba, the question has been asked, Why do the Cubans want such recognition? It is pretty clear that recognition would place more advantage in the hands of Spain than in the hands of the revolutionists. Spain could then search American ships and all ships for that matter, on the high seas, which she can do now only in her own waters, three leagues from the shores of Cuba. Recognition would also release Spain from responsibility for injury to the property of American citizens in Cuba. Under those circumstances there is some surprise that the Cubans have been bringing pressure to bear upon congress for recognition.

Their motive has been explained to me by a distinguished Cuban as follows: "If a state of war is officially declared, we shall be able to borrow money on the strength of it. We shall be able to outfit expeditions and to forward large supplies of ammunition and weapons. But, more important than all, is the probability that Spain would search American ships and would not be very gentle or circumspect in the process. The American people would not stand that long. I predict that within 90 days after a state of war is declared there will be either war between Spain and the United States growing out of complications created by seizure of your merchant ships or President Cleveland will intervene in behalf of Cuban independence." WALTER WELLMAN.

Playing With the French Army.

A favorite amusement of the two emperors was playing with the French army. Napoleon delighted in the display of his many chalots to the last and in the exhibition of their enthusiastic affection for him. Their drill, their uniforms, the niceties of military ceremonial, the gorgeous drum majors twirling their batons or marching in puffy state every detail fascinated the czar, whose house, said Czartoryski, was affected with the disease of parndomania. "Life of Napoleon," by Professor Sloane, in Century.

THE HONEST TURKS.

A Valuable Diamond Ring That Worked Its Way Up From the Ranks.

The following is a characteristic anecdote:

When the batteries of the Ingour were taken, the first soldier who entered, perceiving a Russian colonel lying dead upon the ground, plucked off his glove and appropriated a valuable diamond ring which was upon his finger. Knowing, however, that it would be impossible very long to keep secret the possession of so valuable a prize, he showed his usbashi, or captain, his treasure and requested permission to keep it.

The usbashi told the man that he was quite right to bring the prize to him, and that henceforth it should be transferred to the finger of the said usbashi.

The soldier, not satisfied with this arrangement, referred the matter to the bimbashi, or major, who said that both he and the usbashi were highly culpable in daring to retain the ring from their superior officer, and that he would therefore relieve them of the subject of dispute.

From the bimbashi the solider went to the kaima kama, or lieutenant colonel, who at once followed the example of his inferiors and took possession of the ring.

The soldier still persevered, however, and went to the mecr all (colonel), who determined that he was the rightful possessor of the ring by virtue of his rank and dismissed the rival claimants from his presence in the most summary manner.

Next day a French officer attached to the staff of Omar Pasha observed a private soldier prowling near the tent of the commander in chief. The story of the ring was at once retailed by its original possessor to this gentleman, who laid the matter before his highness, and the man had not only the satisfaction of regaining possession of his property, but of knowing that those who had attempted successively to deprive him of it had been severely reprimanded for their conduct. Blackburn Standard.

RINGS AND RING-LORE.

Shakespeare's ring, or at least a ring supposed to be his, was found a few years ago in a meadow near the Avon.

Wedding rings of plain gold, without outward ornament or inscription, were in vogue early as the sixth century.

According to the traditions of the east, Solomon conquered all his enemies through the mystic properties of his ring.

All the state rings of the British sovereigns are preserved, either in the British museum or among the regalia of the crown.

At the death of the pope it was formerly the custom to break his ring. This practice was discontinued in the present century.

Pliny tells of Arellius Fuscus, who, being expelled from the equestrian order and therefore not permitted to wear gold rings, replaced them with those made of silver.

Paradise rings were greatly worn in Italy three centuries ago. They were very wide and bore on the circumference representations of Adam and Eve in the garden of Eden.

The ring composed of several loops which fell apart when a spring was pressed was frequently used in the fifteenth century as a betrothal and sometimes as a wedding ring.

Mithridates, in the first century before Christ, had a very large collection or museum of signet rings. It was insinuated against him that his collection contained the signet of every leading potentate of his time.

The coronation ring of Great Britain is of gold, with a large and very valuable ruby setting. During the coronation ceremonies it is placed on the fourth finger of the sovereign by the archbishop of Canterbury.

Tower rings were in use both among Hebrews and Christians from the ninth to the twelfth century. The back of the ring bore a gold representation of a small castle or tower, in which was contained a charm or relic. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

DREAMS OF DRESS.

The new "old rose" shade is almost as pink as a carnation blossom.

Certain rich shades of green velvet will combine with nearly as many different colors as black velvet.

The smocked waists made of tartan silk handkerchiefs are mostly worn with skirts of self color, neutral tints preferably.

The shirt waist is again triumphant and is already to be seen in every importing and fancy dry goods house in the land.

A five or seven gored skirt, well shaped and well hung, is the best model for either tall or short women or those slender or stout.

Delicately flowered pink chiffon over rich pink satin formed an exquisite gown recently worn by a charming debutante of the season.

Lapped skirt gores buttoned at the top, with real or simulated buttonholes on the silk lined flaps, are a feature of some of the new gowns.

China taffeta silks in soft, beautiful Dresden patterns are again in great use for separate waists. The new spring patterns are in very lovely colorings.

Mohair still retains its universal favor, and this coming season will appear in new, pretty varieties in serge, armure, basket and whipcord weaves, and also in many handsome colors.

There is a general tendency to discard all stiff interlinings in the gowns for next season, employing the crinoline, haircloth, moreen or other lining fabric for an entirely separate underskirt.

The dress [illegible] is sealed. All gowns now brought from Paris by returned importers and tourists show the bodice finished with a close fitting sleeve, completed at the top by a very modest moderate puff, or slightly larger divided puff, a vandyke point, Hungarian cap or tucked or gimp trimmed chatelaine drapery falling to the elbow. SENATOR ALLISON HAS HIS CHANCES.

He May Secure the Republican Nomination.

HE OCCUPIES A MIDDLE GROUND.

Silver the Predominating Factor in Both Parties, and Both Are in Distress Over It—Characteristics of the Iowa Senator.

Washington, Feb. 27. (Special.) Senator Allison is now openly in the field as a presidential candidate. There is much more in the Allison movement than appears on the surface. The Iowa senator has been so often spoken of for the Republican nomination and has cut so little figure in conventions that it has become a sort of standing joke that he is a promising candidate. "Yes; he promises well, but never pans out," I have heard many times say. But this year the conditions are different. The field is well split up, and there is no great, commanding figure. Besides the issues are different. This is the first presidential campaign in which the silver question has been the predominating factor. That it is now the question of questions every one admits. It is so in both of the great parties, and both parties are in trouble with it. It would be difficult to say which is in greater distress. The leaders of both organizations for months may be a bolt from the national convention. All are trying to find a middle ground which will avert the threatened disaster.

This is where Allison is strong. He could occupy a middle ground and could stand on almost any part of a platform. While his votes have nearly always been cast on the side of what is known as sound money, he has at the same time consistently believed that the double use of silver was desirable. He does not glorify the white metal, as do some of the silver men, and he does not cast it out and out as do the gold men, while he would prefer that all of his own number will be content with him. If the Republican party gets itself into such a position that it must declare in favor of a policy to hold the two metals on a parity, Allison's position becomes a perplexing one.

The friends of Senator Allison have lately started in this city an organization which is to look after the practical end of the campaign. They have looked about them and found that Speaker Reed's interests appear to be in the care of Senator Quay, than whom there is no more practical or skillful politician. Mr. Platt, with more or less sincerity, is looking after the welfare of Governor Morton. Ex-Governor McKinley's interests are receiving the careful attention of a very bright and energetic man, Mark Hanna of Cleveland. Though a plain, blunt, business man and fond of calling himself such, Mr. Hanna is about as smart as they make them in the political world. Ex-President Harrison is being groomed by Colonel John C. New of Indianapolis, and Colonel New knew all about politics before most of the men of today took their first lessons in the art.

The Candidate's Man.

Why should we not have an organization, a headquarters, a man to watch things, some one to send out to see the right people at the right time, and the money for all proper expenses? asked the Allison men of themselves. Then they came together, with an intention to provide just such a machine. It is located here in Washington and will co-operate with that prince of politicians and past master of the art of working up public opinion, James S. Clarkson. In such hands the Allison movement ought to thrive. Already it is attracting much attention in the west, and I predict you will hear more of it before the summer is over.

There is a great deal of curiosity here as to whether Mr. Allison intends to stand upon a platform which was erected for him by some of his admirers a few months ago. They said Mr. Allison, if nominated and elected president, would not veto any currency measure that the congress might pass. In this Allison was to take his stand upon the theory that the veto power was not intended to be used by presidents except in the case of hasty, or ill considered, or mistaken legislation; that it was never intended to be interposed where the people themselves had had opportunity to discuss the question, and where the congress had been elected on that issue. That would be making the president greater and more powerful than the people, something which the founders of the republic surely did not contemplate. It would be making him a sort of dictator.

Mr. Allison's friends argue that this is sound doctrine, wholly in accord with the spirit of our institutions. They say the people ought to have the right to express their will at the ballot box in the election of representatives and senators, and that the executive ought not have the power to nullify that will when thus registered. They contend that the veto power was given the president only with the idea that now and then congress would do something rash or hasty, that it would act upon sudden passion or without full information, and that in such instances the veto power was a check and corrective, and that this is the scope of the power when rightly used.

Allison a Bimetallist.

Senator Allison, I understand, is a great believer in international bimetallism. While abroad representing this country at the Brussels conference he made a careful study of the currency question in Europe and returned home convinced that some day the world will restore silver to equal rank with gold as a money metal. It is argued in Allison's behalf that his election to the presidency would command much respect abroad and tend to bring the question of international bimetallism to the front. The foreign who favor this method of solving the question which is troubling the whole world would know that the opportune time had come, and the result would be a vigorous movement.

Personally Senator Allison is one of the most lovable men in Washington public life. If he has any enemies, probably he does not know who they are. Always affable and courteous, approachable and unaffected, he has the love and affection of all who know him. It is a great mistake to suppose that Mr. Allison is a man without [illegible] opinions and expresses them frankly. In debate he is frank and strong, and there are few senators who care to go against him.

Mr. Allison is a very poor man. Though he has been in public life practically all of his manhood years, he has absolutely nothing but his salary.

Caution.

"Can you sew buttons on?" asked the leap year new woman.

"No," he answered.

"Has your father educated you so that you know how to take proper care of a bicycle?"

"No. I can't say he ever has."

"Then," she said bluntly, "I must crush the fond fancy which was blossoming in my heart. The words I meant to speak must be unsaid. You are not the kind of a man who would make home happy." Washington Star.

Dick Tait. Miss Ribbon, what is the matter with your typewriter bell? I never hear it any more.

Miss Ribbon (confused) Oh, I beg your pardon, Mr. Tait, but I have borrowed it a day or two for my bicycle. New York World.

SPECIFIC FOR SCROFULA.

"Since childhood, I have been afflicted with scrofulous boils and sores, which caused me terrible suffering. Physicians were unable to help me, and I only grew worse under their care. At length, I began to take Sarsaparilla, and very soon grew better. After using half a dozen bottles I was completely cured, so that I have not had a boil or pimple on any part of my body for the last twelve years. I can cordially recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla as the very best blood-purifier in existence." G. T. REINHART, Myersville, Texas.

AYER'S

Madam Tully, the world's complexion specialist and dermatologist, located at the Antlers, introducing her new system of dermatology and beauty culture, is the only person who has discovered the means by which humanity can bid defiance to time, with its cares, sorrows and troubles, to leave tell-tale traces (wrinkles and lines) which mar the beauty and kill the youthful appearance of humanity. Madam Tully is the only person in the world that can successfully and permanently remove and prevent wrinkles, lines, crowfeet and frowns from marring your beauty and youthful appearance. You have only to call and see Madam Tully to be convinced of her skill and the efficacy of her preparations and appliances. She succeeds where others have failed; she leads, others try to follow; she designs, others try to imitate. She and her facial beautifier have revolutionized the science of dermatology. Ladies of all ages are cordially invited to call and investigate and receive valuable advice and consultation free. Ladies who wish to treat themselves at home can have steamers with full directions for use.
